THE TRUE STORY OF GROUP OF 32 on OCT 10TH

Pastor Todd Cox of Stonepoint Church said that their tour was scheduled to leave on the 11th from Tel Aviv on Delta Airlines.

When the terror attack happened on the 7th, Delta Airlines ceased flights. The group contacted the U.S. Embassy for assistance. They were given options to fly on other flights to different countries.

However a friend of the Pastor's wife, named "Michelle" who used to work for Ken Paxton's office contacted Mills on the 9th and she put Mills on the phone with the Pastor. Mills said he would get them out his way.

Mills flew to Ammon, Jordan and got there late on the 10th.

Mills crossed the border and went to the Hotel in Nazareth to meet the Pastors tour group where they were.

Mills rode with the group on their tour bus to the Jordanian border.

The U.S. Embassy in Ammon got the tour group emergency Visas to cross the border. They left the Bus.

A security convoy escorted the tour group to a Hotel in Ammon, Jordan.

The tour group was told that their hotel bill would be paid for.

The tour group then went to the Airport the next day and had to pay for their own flights out at a cost of $1,200 a piece. (Mills claims on video and news shows that he got them out free)

Delta airlines and Airline Insurance did not help them pay for their flights from Jordan since it was not done with reciprocal airlines in Tel Aviv. (People were leaving Tel Aviv with different Airlines)

Mills pointed them to an Arabic Airline in Ammon, Jordan and they flew to Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, and then on to JFK, and Delta picked up the flight from JFK to Atlanta.

It then took them 2 more days to get home because of the way Mills told them to go.

The Mills so called rescue cost the group over $39,000 for the rescheduled and re routed flights.

Cory Mills Evacuates Americans out of Israel

JAVIER MANJARRES

OCTOBER 11, 2023

 UPDATED

As Israel calls up 300,000 reservists to join the war effort against the terror group Hamas, Florida Congressman Cory Mills (R) has once again answered the call to service, and flew overnight to Israel to help rescue Americans stranded there.

In an exclusive phone call with The Floridian, Rep. Mills said that he was on the ground helping Israelis and evacuating Americans.

According to Mills, he was able to rescue 32 Americans, but there are still “hundreds trapped” in Israel.

 UPDATED— Mills has evacuated 77 Americans out of Israel

Mills could not disclose his exact position for obvious security reasons but said that “helping and showing solidarity with our Israeli brethren and helping Americans evacuate” after the heinous Hamas attack was something he as an American felt compelled to do.

Rep. Brian Mast (R), who volunteered in the IDF after leaving the U.S. military, told The Floridian that Rep. Mills had told him and other members of Florida’s congressional delegation that he would be traveling to Israel.

Before being elected to the House of Representatives, Mills and a team of military contractors rescued an American family from Afghanistan during the Biden administration’s botched 2021 withdrawal.

The Floridian has obtained this images from Mills' trip to Israel.

Dozens of Forsyth County residents will soon return to the United States from Israel after being stuck in the country following the attacks by Hamas, which began on Saturday, Oct. 7.

StonePoint Church lead Pastor Todd Cox told Forsyth County News he and 31 others from his church and outside the church, including 25 Forsyth County residents, have been evacuated to Jordan by U.S. Rep. Cory Mills, a Republican representing Florida's 7th Congressional District.

Mills told the FloridianPress.com he flew overnight to Israel to help the stranded visitors but that there are still "hundreds trapped in the country."

Cox said the group was set to return to Georgia on Wednesday, Oct. 11 but found out on Sunday, Oct. 8 their flight had been canceled.

He said a friend of his was able to connect him with Mills after seeing Cox's social media posts about being stuck in the country.

I replied on her post and that evening I received a call from her introducing me to U.S. Rep. Cory Mills over the phone," Cox told FCN in an email. "The next day, he flew to Israel and then met our bus in Nazareth and rode with us all the way to Jordan and took care of anything we needed help with. Super great man and a true hero."

Cox said they are expecting to leave Jordan on Thursday evening and return to the United States.

Asked about the experience, Cox said it showed "how God truly worked miracles in so many ways on this trip and especially in these last days."

"We are so grateful for the thousands of people that have been praying for us," Cox said. "We continue to pray for those still in Israel going [through] this war. Please pray for their safety and protection."

'Out of Nazareth!' Florida Congressman Rescues a Church Group in Israel

10-19-2023

Wendy Griffith

A Georgia pastor caught in Israel when war broke out is thanking God for orchestrating the rescue of him and 30 other people stranded in Nazareth.

Pastor Todd Cox of StonePoint Church in Cumming, Georgia had been in Israel for 7 days. During that time, he baptized 16 people in the Jordan River and also renewed his vows with his wife at Magdala. All was happening according to plan until Saturday morning October 7th.

"That's when we got the information that the war had broken out, that about 4,000 rockets had been fired in the south," Cox told CBN News.

Pastor Todd said his first instinct was to protect his people. "I was in the Coast Guard and so I'm a rescuer at heart and I'm a leader and take-charge guy. It certainly made me want to do something and to jump into action. But the good news is the Lord really just gave me a sense of peace and calm," he said.

Although they were up north in Nazareth – a safer part of Israel – they realized that could change at any moment and began to look for options to return home.

"We contacted, of course, the Embassy. We filled out paperwork with the State Department to let them know where we were so they could get in touch with us if there was an emergency. And there were some options to fly out of Tel Aviv and to Istanbul but those went away. And of course, people were a little worried about going down to Tel Aviv because of rockets," he said.

Cox had been posting about their situation on Facebook and the first miracle happened when a friend saw the post and connected them with Republican Rep. Cory Mills of Florida.

"The next day he flew out to Jordan personally, flew out to Jordan, came across the border, made his contacts and met us in Nazareth and got on the bus with us in Nazareth, and escorted us all the way across the border," Cox said. "He personally took care of us and got us into a hotel in Amman, Jordan, where we were able to fly out the following day. I just truly believe that God used my friend and Representative Mills as his instruments to rescue us," Cox said.

Judy Paxton, Pastor Todd's mother who was also on the trip, agreed.

"Absolutely, he's my hero," Paxton said. "He (Mills) came in with a plan and made us all feel at ease. And somebody had sent a passage to me saying, 'He will send his angels to rescue you.' And so, I showed Rep. Mills that verse, and I said, 'You're the angel that God sent to rescue us,'" she said.

News of the rescue quickly spread. Mills told Fox News, "I hope that them being home now and actually getting out and being in a safe space, will give them the confidence that Americans won't be left behind," he said.

The lesson in all of this for Pastor Todd – stay close to Jesus. "If we're not close and we're not listening and we're not tuned into His voice, then we're going to miss it. And so, I just want to encourage people to be close to Him, to be in his Word, to be listening to His still small voice," Cox said.
